Led By the Psalms

One of our goals this year is to become a more spiritually minded people. This is a goal for our entire congregation, and I pray it is a personal goal for each one of us and our families. One of the ways I hope we can accomplish this is by taking time to read a Psalm throughout the week. Meditate on it, and pray through that Psalm at least once. The Psalms have a wonderful way of drawing us closer to God in our thoughts and day-to-day lives. Last week we naturally started with Psalm 1. It called us to think about what it means to stand firm in our Christian lives and not be easy prey for the struggles that are certain to come to us. Hopefully, we have spent some time thinking and talking with our families this week about the importance of the people we are allowing to have influence in our lives. God's intention is for us to not only obey but find delight in His Word. Those are all things that will change our lives if we think about them every day.

If you have never taken the time to pray through a psalm, let this be your encouragement to give it a try. Let the inspired words guide your thoughts and words as you pray silently or with your family. Start by talking to God about the blessings in our lives that come through Him. Continue to talk about your walk, maybe focusing on how we walk by faith or maybe on the danger of walking in the paths of evil. Continue until you run out of Psalm, or you run out of time. This practice has helped my prayer life tremendously.

I'm already looking forward to next week and Psalm 2 when God laughs at the things that tend to upset our lives so much. I'm looking forward to being led to greater spiritual depths by the Psalms!
